The crop is profitable either as food for human beings or as feed for hogs, and produces also an excellent hay. Some of the peanut butter concerns have offered prizes, and the government furnishes skilled advice in the form of a recent circular. How better can a boy benefit his generation than by making two peanuts to grow where but one grew before; and what nobler ambition can

Psychological Fire.
My aunt told me to go tell the maid to make a fire in the kitchen stove, as we had no fire in the other part of the house. I did, and a few moments later went to the kitchen. Kicking my hands over the stove, I said, "My, how nice and warm it is! It's heating up already." The maid lifted the stove lid and said, "I haven't made the fire yet."—Chicago Tribune.

LITTLE NEWS ITEMS THROUGHOUT STATE

Forsyth.—Bernard Gaston, ten years old, has produced this year 141.6 bushels of good corn on his acre of ground, entered in the Butts county corn club contest. This is the boy's first year in the corn club, but he produced this yield of corn at a cost of only 23 cents per bushel, a profit of 196 on his acre. He has other corn that will measure over 100 bushels to the acre.

Savannah.—Hon. Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives, has accepted an invitation to be the guest of the Savannah Rotary club, at its Georgia Products dinner Friday, November 20. At night he will deliver an address under the auspices of the brotherhood of the First Presbyterian church on the subject, "The United States."

Decatur.—Preparations are already being made by the Decatur board of trade for the occasion of Georgia Products day, Wednesday, November 18. Just what the program here will be is not yet known, though plans are being made looking to a most entertaining and interesting program. Of course a dinner of Georgia products will be one of the main features—if not the most important feature.

Talbotton.—Talbotton was visited by a big blaze which consumed three historic buildings. One was the first hotel in Talbotton and the old home of the late Irby Leonard. Another was the first millinery store in Talbotton, which was run by Mrs. Leonard. The other was the house in which Col. Charles H. Jones, one time managing editor of the New York World, was born.

Quitman.—The Girls' Canning club held its first exhibit with much success, the great variety of products being a liberal education in what can be produced on the farms in the way of eatables. Miss Blanche Young, a pretty student of the Quitman High School, whose parents live on a farm in the county, won first prize with an exhibit containing twenty-six varieties of vegetables and fruits. Miss Bessie Williams won second prize and Miss Ida Willford third.

Winder.—At a meeting of the stockholders and board of directors of the Winder cotton mill, the mill was reorganized and the name changed to the Barrow county cotton mill. The capital stock was placed at $125,000, with an additional $25,000 as working capital. The following officers were elected: J. M. Williams, president; W. C. Horton and W. L. Delapierre, vice president; L. S. Radford, secretary and treasurer.

Atlanta.—Europe's war having shattered trade relations between England, France, Germany and other countries and South and Central America, and the prospect of the United States—particularly the South—supplying most of the commerce to Latin-America looming bright, Atlanta's school board, created the chair of Spanish instruction as part of the curriculum of the Boys' high school.

Columbus.—The marriage of two of the oldest, possibly, and two of the most prominent citizens of Columbus, was an event of unusual interest. They were E. P. Diamukes, Sr., and Mrs. Maria Theresa Googe, and D. A. Andrews and Mrs. Stephen Brannan. Mr. Diamukes, who is about seventy-six years of age, is president of the Georgia-Manufacturing company. Mr. Andrews, who is about the same age, is former tax collector of Muscogee county.

Milledgeville.—Milledgeville is said to be suffering less, proportionally, as a city, than any other in the state, owing to the fact that the institutions here bring a volume of trade. The same may be said of Baldwin county, since there are three strong warehouses and four banks contributing largely to the relief of the farmers. Another factor is the condition of the farmers growing corn, hay, live stock and other home-needed products. This improvement has been going steadily forward in the county for the last five or six years and recently the eradication of the cattle tick has added immensely to the welfare of the county.

Thomasville.—Calro will probably go on record as the first town in this section that has allowed the vote to women, and to the credit of the fair sex be it said that they won out. At a meeting held in that town this week to discuss various matters thought to be of vital interest to its future growth that old much thrashed out subject of the rights of "sis" was brought out. Several of the prominent citizens discussed the matter pro and con. Finally one up-to-date member of the meeting moved that the ladies, of whom there were a number present, be given the privilege of casting their vote in the matter. His motion was seconded and carried, and, when a rising vote was taken, there was found to be only one single individual who was in favor of the old brand, and so she will now chew the cud of sweet and bitter memories in the back lots of the city.

Brunswick.—Edwin Gould and C. F. Bourne, commodore of the New York Yacht club, are expected to arrive on Jekyll island soon. They will be the first visitors to arrive at the island this season. These two millionaires left New York a few days ago in Commodore Bourne's handsome private yacht, and are making the trip down the coast. This yacht which is an unusually handsome one, was once owned by King Albert of Belgium, who has been in the limelight here of late. The coming season promises to be the greatest in the history of Jekyll island.

GAY LIFE IN THE CITY.

It's about time to put the kibosh on all this talk about keeping the boys on the farm. Why should a boy or young man want to stay on a farm when he can go to the city, and, after tramping through the heat, or cold, or rain, or snow for five or six weeks, land a fine, fat, easy, soft snap of a job as a motorman? Then all he will have to do will be to get up about five a. m. winter and summer, swallow a boarding house breakfast that a hog on his father's farm would spurn, dash merrily to the car barn, take the abuse of a slave-driving car-starter, and go gaily to work. Ah, what pleasure to stand all day in a vestibule that is perfumed with the smells of the unwashed bodies of just-over-immigrant laborers, on their way to work in a sewer! Think of the fragrance of all grades of tobacco in cigarettes in cigars and in pipes of many degrees of strength! It is simply great to breathe this spicy air all day. In the meanwhile one hears the sweet compliments of the ladies and gentlemen who do not happen to think of signaling when they want to get off, but who rightfully feel that the motorman should have known, if he was not such a fat-headed lob, and who do not hesitate to tell him so. Oh yes, its great. Every farmer boy ought to leave home at once and dash to the city. Think of the wages he'll get! Why, at the end of a month, after paying for board, room, laundry, clothes and uniform, union dues and assessments, he'll have almost enough left to go to a movie show. But he probably won't go, because he'll be so all-in and so full of the poisonous reek that he inhaled all day, that he will tumble into bed to forget it until the alarm clock calls him to begin all over again.

Sure He Had It.
She (to husband who has armful of bundles)—"Good heavens, Jack! What are all those things for?" He—Well, I couldn't remember the thing you told me to get, so I got all the things I thought it might have been.—Judge.

Few People Walk Properly.
The importance of a graceful carriage can hardly be overestimated. Few people walk properly and well. One's walk should be easy, graceful, and, above all, natural. Do not turn the toes in, but take firm and decided steps. Do not bring the heels down with a thump at each step, but have them moderately long and quiet. A well-known writer says: "Whoever carries the chin close to the neck is all right from top to toe and will walk well."

TED IN HEAVEN.

Another true story has been told about "Ananias Ted."

He approached the heavenly gate.

George Washington asked admission.

Saint Peter said: "What have you done to earn heaven?"

"I freed America from English rule. I am the father of my country."

"You may enter," was the immediate command.

Abraham Lincoln stepped up and upon stating that he had freed the negro, secured admission.

"Ananias Ted" then pushed his way up.

The Saint again said: "Who are you and what have you done to earn a heavenly reward?"

"None of your damned business! Where is God?"

GEORGIA, TOWNS COUNTY

The Superior Court of said county. The petition of W. L. Peel, J. N. McEachern, H. F. Branham and J. A. Sharp respectfully shew:

1 That W. L. Peel, J. N. McEachern, H. F. Branham and J. A. Sharp are members of the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS COLLEGE.

As such Trustees, they file this their petition to revive the charter heretofore granted by this honorable court to Young L. G. Harris and others, incorporating the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS COLLEGE.

2 Petitioners show that on the petition of Young L. G. Harris and others, this honorable court granted an order incorporating them as the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG HARRIS INSTITUTE, such order of incorporation being granted at the March term, 1898, of this court, such corporation being thereby granted the powers and privileges and subjected to the burdens imposed, as fully shown in the petition for incorporation and the order of court granting the same, as the same appear on the records and minutes of the court.

3 Petitioners show further that at the March term, 1891, said charter was amended by changing the name of the corporation to TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS COLLEGE, and by giving the corporation certain additional rights and privileges all as more fully shown in the petition for amendment and the order of this honorable court allowing same, as duly appears on the records and minutes of the court.

4 Petitioners further show that under the original petition for incorporation, the life of the corporation was limited to a period of twenty years; that such period expired in March, 1903.

Now, therefore, this petition is brought to revive the charter of such corporation, under the provisions of Section 2825 of the Code of Georgia of 1910.

Wherefore, petitioners pray that the charter of the corporation known as the TRUSTEES OF THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS COLLEGE be revived, and that the corporation so revived be invested with all the rights, powers, privileges and property of the old corporation, and subject to all the burdens resting thereon, and be invested with all the rights, powers and privileges appertaining by law to corporation of like character. And that an order of this honorable court be granted accordingly, after due and legal advertisement of this petition once a week for four weeks prior to the grant of said order, in the nearest public gazette to the place where the Young L. G. Harris College is located, same being the place of business of said corporation.

And your petitioners will ever pray.
W. L. Peel; J. N. McEachern, H. F. Branham, J. A. Sharp, et al.

RICHES FOR THE LOUVRE.

The French minister of public instruction announces that the late Marquis Arconati-Visconti has left her beautiful art collections to the Louvre museum. The collections contain unique specimens of all branches of art of the middle ages, renaissance, and eighteenth century. Among pictures of the Italian masters are some fine canvases by Ghirlandajo, Luini and Mainardi.

Waycross.—Plans for the immediate establishment of a co-operative mercantile business are being considered by the unions of Waycross. A site purchased some time ago by the carpenter's union for their home will be used and a one-story brick building erected for the present. Committees from various local unions are now preparing a detailed report for a mass meeting, which will be held shortly. It is claimed that such stores operated in other cities have saved as much as 24 per cent. for those interested.

Microbes.
Microbes have been divided into two main classes—aerobic and anaerobic—the first growing best in the presence of air and the second growing best in the substance and in portions to which free air has no access. Some of the first class, such as hay bacillus, grow best only with a copious supply of air; some grow better when the air supply is not large than when free air is admitted. Some of the second class can grow in the absence of free air, but thrive more when some air is admitted. Others which are fully anaerobic grow only when free air or oxygen is shut out.

Dear Sir:

On account of the depressed business conditions prevalent at the present time which is of course materially felt by the transportation lines we of course felt that our expenses must be reduced accordingly, and had arranged to discontinue our present double daily passenger service to Robertstown, but having received a petition from a large number of the representative people of Towns county to continue our present service by which their mails are furnished, we have decided to continue our present schedule feeling that they, the good people of Towns county will rally to our support and give us as liberal a patronage as possible and thereby assisting us in maintaining for their convenience the best possible passenger, freight and mail service for that territory.

I will greatly appreciate your making as favorable mention of our action in the premises as possible in your next issue, and sending us a copy of the paper.

Assuring you and the good people of Towns county that it is our utmost endeavor to give you the best possible service, and to meet their wishes whenever possible, I am,

Yours truly,

HIAWASSEE ITEMS.

The school here under the management of Prof. L. B. Johnson, the new principal, is moving along nicely. Several important changes have been made in the work and we believe the institution is entering new fields of usefulness.

On last Saturday evening the students and young people of the town enjoyed a Halloween party at the court house. Innocent games and sports were indulged in. The Gypsy soothsayer surrounded by pumpkins with mouths like Johnson wings looked down the weird vistas of time and laid bare the destinies of many anxious listeners. Crackers, apples and old fashioned "punkin" custard were served, and last of all the homeward stroll beneath that light which we all know holdeth magic.

Mrs. J. M. Berrong visited her parents on Hightower last Sunday.

"Aunt" Rachel Burns and "Aunt" Lou Brown have been sick lately, but are a little better at present.

Mrs. William McCoy, of Dilard, was here Sunday to see her son, a high school student.

Lon Bowen, a blue jacket, in the United States Navy, is at home for a few days.

Mr. Ernest Stroud, who has been away for sometime, is visiting home folk this week.

We are reliably informed that the waters of the mill pond became troubled Sunday afternoon, and our friend Blackwell, rather reluctantly dipped himself from the after part of a boat.

Well, at the time of this writing, Monday night, Hog Creek is in turmoil and some little politicians will come forth about six o'clock in the morning. War-talk, weather-praise, wheat-sowing and even christiainity seem to be taking a few days off until the election is over.

Humorous Childish Errors.

The literary mistakes of are perennial and perennially in character. A public school teacher who recently has compiled a "first aid" information in her pupils says, for example, the allusion "Dan to Beersheba" forth the amazing misinformation. Dan was a man who was captured by a lion's den for mistreating Beersheba, and that another inaccurate student described the mother of Cain as the mother of Cain.
